NEWS RELEASE

SUPPORTERS OF MODERNIZING THE “BOTTLE BILL” RELEASE NAMES OF OVER 1,000 CHARITIES THAT BENEFIT FROM LAW

RELEASE FOLLOWS ANALYSIS RELEASED LAST WEEK THAT SHOWED HOW CURRENT “BOTTLE BILL” IS HURTING BUSINESSES AND COSTING JOBS

GROUPS CALL ON STATE LAWMAKERS TO MODERNIZE BOTTLE BILL – COVER MORE BEVERAGES, INCREASE DEPOSIT, HIKE HANDLING FEE

(Albany, N.Y.) A coalition supporting improvements to the state’s Bottle Deposit Law today released a listing of over 1,000 local charities that benefit from the law. The coalition argued that these charities offer services for those in need and that modernization of the forty-year-old law would enhance the charities’ services. (A listing of the charities is attached.)

The release followed last week’s analysis of the closure of about 100 small business “redemption centers” is the result of the failure to update the current law’s fifteen year “freeze” of the handling fee for redemption centers that rely on the Bottle Deposit Law for revenues (see https://www.nypirg.org/pubs/202405/Bigger_Better_Bottle_Bill_News_Release_5-31-24.pdf).

The groups urged state lawmakers to support modernizing New York’s Bottle Deposit Law (S.237-C/A.6353-A). That legislation would increase the handling fee to help benefit redemption centers and other businesses and non-profits that collect redeemable beverage containers and help increase revenues for charities that rely on the law for a portion of their revenues.

The legislation would also cover virtually all beverage containers (current law only covers carbonated beverages and water bottles), increase the deposit from a nickel to a dime (it’s been a nickel since 1983), and increase the handling fee (which has been in place since 2009). The handling fee would be increased to adjust for inflation.

The coalition cited the widespread support for the changes including over 300 civic, religious, environmental, and businesses that have urged support for the legislation. (A list of those groups is attached.) The Bottle Deposit Law requires that consumers purchasing a covered beverage container must pay a nickel deposit which can be redeemed by the consumer. The Law is considered a great success and has drastically reduced litter and stimulated recycling in New York.

AN ACT to amend the environmental conservation law, in relation to returnable bottles

SUMMARY OF PROVISIONS:
This legislation proposes to implement an expansion and modernization of the state’s Bottle Bill. Relates to returnable bottles; adds wine, liquor, distilled spirit coolers, and cider and wine products to the definition of “beverage”, increases the container deposit from five cents to ten cents, and provides that the handling fee will be increased in three phases culminating at 6.5 cents for each beverage container accepted by a deposit initiator from a dealer or operator of a redemption center.

STATEMENT OF SUPPORT:
This is the 40th anniversary of the Bottle Bill, a time when society is drowning in discarded plastic waste and local recycling programs are in crisis on several fronts. It is time to update and expand the state’s highly successful container deposit redemption program. In a business-as-usual scenario, scientists predict that the ocean will contain one ton of plastic for every three tons of fish by 2025, and by 2050, more plastics (by weight) than fish.\(^1\) Clearly, reducing the amount of plastic waste – and waste in general – is a critical way to avoid these “doomsday” environmental scenarios.

The New York State Returnable Container Act went into effect in 1983 and requires a 5-cent refundable deposit to be placed on eligible beverage containers. The law requires retailers who sell covered beverages to accept returns of empty containers for the products they sell and refund the deposits, and it requires beverage distributors to pay retailers a handling fee for the cost of collecting empty containers.

Much of New York is struggling with an ongoing solid waste crisis, brought about by China’s 2018 decision to stop receiving the waste from the United States. Not only would the expansion of the state’s Bottle Bill increase recycling rates and make New York’s environment and communities cleaner, it would also support municipal recycling programs that are currently facing a crisis. Municipal recycling programs are particularly struggling with glass containers in their recycling streams because when the glass containers in curbside containers break, it can render much of the other materials uncontrollable for the municipality, or “contaminated”. The expansion of the Bottle Bill to include wine, spirits, and hard cider would take a significant amount of the glass and plastic beverage containers that municipalities are struggling with off their hands.

Even when recyclable materials are not contaminated by broken glass, the costs of recycling containers that are not covered under the state’s Bottle Bill are too high for many municipalities. For example, the costs associated with collecting and processing PET plastic bottles and glass per ton are higher than revenues per ton they can fetch as scrap material.\(^2\) Expanding the Bottle Bill would reduce or eliminate these costs by creating a financial incentive for consumers to return and an obligation for retailers to accept these containers, relieving the burden on municipal recycling programs.

Additionally, an expansion of the Bottle Bill would result in increased economic opportunities for New Yorkers. If the law is modernized, New Yorkers can expect 4,145 new jobs to be created.\(^3\) Additionally, many low-income New Yorkers, often within immigrant, senior, or homeless communities, rely upon the practice of “canning” to supplement their income. According to the organization Sure We Can, an estimated 10,000 New Yorkers are part of the city’s canning community.\(^4\) Increasing the deposit and expanding the types of containers covered by the law will bring new money into the canning community.

Specifically, there are two key changes contained in this legislation that modernize the Bottle Bill:

- The legislation expands the types and number of beverage containers covered by the Bottle Bill. Other states from Maine to California include a diverse range of non-carbonated beverages, wine, and liquor with great success.\(^5\)
- The legislation increases the amount of the deposit to a dime and directs a portion of the additional revenues collected by the state to ensure better compliance and enhance access to redemption entities in currently underserved communities. States like Michigan and Oregon that have increased their deposit to a dime have seen increases in recycling and container redemption rates.\textsuperscript{6}

Expanding the Bottle Bill would provide major financial benefits to New York’s municipalities as well as the state. Reloop estimates that expanding the law would save New York’s municipalities $70.9 million annually through waste diversion while recycling an additional 5.5 billion containers. Already, the unclaimed bottle deposits generate millions of dollars that are used to support environmental programs statewide through New York’s General Fund. It is estimated that a Bottle Bill expansion will generate between $40-$200 million in additional revenues for the state.\textsuperscript{7}

Over its 40-year history, New York’s Bottle Bill has proven highly effective at reducing litter and increasing recycling rates. In 2020, New York’s redemption rate was at 64%. The Bottle Bill reduces roadside container litter by 70%, and in 2020, 5.5 billion containers were recycled in the state.\textsuperscript{8} However, the law can do far more. By expanding the law to cover more types of containers and increasing the deposit to a dime, New York can increase recycling rates, reduce litter further, reduce strain on municipal waste systems, and help support environmental programs statewide. Our organizations urge your support of this important legislation.
